FRED OTTERSON. WILL BE BROUGHT HERE FOR BURIAL

Victim of Cairo Murder Member of Paducah M. W. A.
Lodge.

Struck On Head With Revolver
And Shot.

HIS ALLEGED SLAYER ESCAPED

Arrangements for the burial of the body of Fred Otterson, 24 years old, formerly of Paducah, who was killed in Cairo Saturday night, have not been completed and word is being wanted from his wife, Mrs. Mattie Otterson, at Memphis, Mrs. Emma Sutherland, of 1011 Lincoln avenue, Paducah, has sister, left this morning for Cairo, accompanied by her husband, Walter M. Sutherland, to accompany the body to Paducah tonight. Burial will either be held here or in Mayfield.

James M. White, alleged slayer of Otterson, is being hunted for by the police of Cairo and Paducah, the latter at the request of Chief Cowell, of the Cairo department. Otterson, who was a towboat hand, lived in Paducah until about a year ago, when he went to Memphis. He was a native of Illinois and never resided at one place long at any time. He visited his sister here a short time ago and while here he became a member of the Modern Woodmen of America, Paducah camp. Otterson is said to have been struck over the head with the butt end of White's revolver and afterwards shot. They quarreled previously at White's saloon, 413 Ohio street.

White made his escape and hid in the hold of the ferryboat Three States, until Sunday morning, when he was carried to the Kentucky shore in a skiff. He fled into the timber of Ballard county and the authorities between here and Cairo are searching for him.

Otterson is survived by his wife and one sister, Mrs. Sutherland.

Operator Indicted.
Cairo, Ill., Oct. 12.—Two indictments were returned in the Alexander county circuit court, charging Charles E. Rodgers alias Charles Clark, with manslaughter as a result of the wreck on the Mobile & Ohio railroad nine miles north of Cairo on September 18, in which Claude Rogers and John Gronow, of Jackson, Tenn., were killed.

Clark was the operator at Beech Ridge, who is charged with responsibility for the collision by failing to give orders to give clearance for a northbound M. & O. freight. The surviving members of the train crew charged that the operator was drunk.

It was his first night on duty, and he claimed to be unfamiliar with the complicated orders providing for joint use of tracks by two or more roads.

Real Wild West Show Is The "101 Ranch"

It has been a long while since a real wild west show came to Paducah, and today is the first visit of the famous "101 Ranch," which now outranks all other similar exhibitions. The parade this morning was unique and interesting, with hundreds of horses, mounted by rough riders from the plains of North and South America, the steppes of Siberia, the wild countries of Asia Minor and the deserts of Arabia, Indians and Cossacks, Cossack chiefs, Bedouins, cowboys and cowgirls and Mexicans and representatives of all types of peoples, who spend their time on horseback, were assembled in the line of march, carrying the mind into the lands of romance. The show carries several excellent bands, and the size and equipment of the exhibition, as shown by the parade, speaks volumes for the quality of entertainment that is being given this afternoon and will be repeated tonight. Hundreds of people were down to the tracks to see the show unload when it arrived from Cairo early this morning, and followed the teams to the lot on Kentucky avenue back of the High school, where "101 Ranch" is showing.

With the show is Carl Elmendorf, a Paducah boy, son of Mrs. Mary Elmendorf, of 429 South Third street. He is secretary of the enterprise.

Joseph C. Miller, the millionaire cattle king, is the head of the show, and has put a fortune as well as his heart into making it the biggest ever. He rides a $10,000 horse in the parade.

Rough riding, roping cattle, buffalo driving, sharp shooting, Indian lighting and cowboy and artillery maneuvers of the various armies of the world, interspersed with high class acrobatic feats, constitute the character of the performance.

Following the dinner given last night at the Palmer House by the members of the commercial club, the annual election of officers was held. As successor to James C. Utterback, the retiring president, William F. Bradshaw, Jr., was elected, while Saunders, A. Fowler was re-elected secretary. The same board of directors was retained also.

The members desired to honor Mr. Utterback with a second term as president in recognition of his efforts for the club, but he declined to stand for re-election, believing that it would be better for the club to pass the presidency to another man. Mr. Bradshaw was nominated and elected unanimously. He was not present and Major J. H. Ashcraft responded on behalf of Mr. Bradshaw.

Col. Vance Talks.
The evening was made more profitable by the presence of Col. John L. Vance, president of the Ohio Valley Improvement association, who delivered an address filled with optimism for Paducah. He gave a review of the work that had been accomplished by the association, and also the progress made towards securing the sites for the two dams between Paducah and Cairo. He devoted part of his address towards the prospects for Paducah with the prospects for new railroads, and the modern bridge right at her door. With the improvement of the river he could see Paducah as a modern commercial and manufacturing center in the future. A plea made by Colonel Vance was for the city to retain the public wharves. He recited stories where the railroads had made steady encroachments upon the waterways.

After his address, Mr. Ben Weille made a few remarks regarding the fair for next year. He said that the state fair at Louisville received financial aid from the state, and that the local association hoped to have a larger and better fair next year.

The last official act of President Utterback was the appointment of H. C. Rhodes, S. A. Fowler and H. B. Sewall as members of a committee to extend a greeting to the Louisville Commercial club boosters, who arrived today at noon. In a brief speech he thanked the members for their co-operation in the year's work.

It will urge again an amendment to the Sherman anti-trust law, permitting railroads to enter into a pooling agreement under control of the interstate commerce commission and with the commission's consent. Federal charters for corporations doing interstate commerce business also will be favored.

DIX HITS AT ROOSEVELT.

New York, Oct. 12.—"Any American, who, occupying a position of authority, or having the public ear, assails and attacks our courts as degrading justice and equity, is to be regarded as a public enemy and should be so branded by any reasonable man." Two hundred prominent women of Kentucky will attend the annual state meeting of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, which convened at the Galt House, in Louisville, this morning, and will continue for three days. Mrs. L. McL. Blakemore, of Hopkinsville, is the state president.

This is expected to be one of the most important meetings ever held by the Daughters of the Confederacy in Kentucky. It will accept a design for a monument to John Morgan, to be erected in Lexington, and unveiled next year. The monument is to cost $15,000. The advisory board on the design for and the purchase of the monument met in the Galt House Tuesday evening, and will make its report to the Daughters of the Confederacy at one of its early sessions. Mrs. W. M. Bateman, of Lexington, is president of the board. A reception Wednesday evening in the Galt House, will be two of the principal events of the three days annual meeting.

Mrs. Roy W. McKinney, president of the Paducah chapter, and Mrs. James Koger, auditor of the local chapter, left this week for Louisville to represent Paducah at the sessions.

At Eleventh street and Broadway the visitors were greeted by H. C. Rhodes, H. B. Sewall and Saunders, A. Fowler, secretary of the Commercial club, and news reporters. A handshaking was held while engines were changed, and the special left for Henderson, where the visitors will spend tonight.

At Mayfield a big reception was given the business men. About 3,000 citizens met the train, and a ride over Mayfield was enjoyed. At the court house addresses of welcome were delivered by Mayfield citizens, and Secretary of State Iten Brunner responded on behalf of the boosters.

Quite a party of Mayfield people made the trip from Mayfield to Paducah today aboard the Louisville business men's special train. In the party were: W. E. Norman, W. A. Usher, T. L. Stovall, Dr. John Dismukes and Clay G. Lemon, of the Mayfield Messenger.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—Judge Kohlmeyer in the United States circuit court, today issued a temporary injunction, preventing the Illinois railway and warehouse commission from enforcing its order, reducing express charges. The state's attorney general also is enjoined from starting action against express companies for their failure to comply with the orders of the commission.

The government has announced that the Irish Dominican fathers and nuns, who have conducted a school here for many years, will be exempted from the order of expulsion. This step doubtless is due to the desire of the Republicans to keep on good terms with Great Britain.

100 Were Killed.

It is said that Foreign Minister Machado has requested Great Britain to grant immediate recognition to the new regime, ostensibly so that it will be in a position to communicate its full program to the British government.

The casualty list from the recent fighting falls below the most moderate of previous estimates. The official estimate gives the number killed between 100 and 150. Official estimates place the number still lower.

One of the plans attributed to the organizers of the revolution was to bring off the coup d'etat on Oct. 5, when King Manuel was visiting the premier in the northernmost province of the kingdom. It was arranged that the train bearing the king should continue through to the frontier and the soldiers there were to prevent the king from re-entering Portugal.

Take Church Property.

In the meantime the ministers, who would have assembled in a house at the station in Lisbon to see the king off, were to be surrounded and arrested after the departure of the train. The republic was then to be proclaimed.

The provisional government has taken possession of the houses of several religious bodies. No opposition was met. The contents were inventoried and the houses sealed.

It has been decided to issue a decree enforcing compulsory military service.

Washington, Oct. 12.—The state department late this afternoon received the following cablegram from Commander John F. Luby of the United States cruiser Des Moines, now at Lisbon:

"The revolution seems to be absolutely successful. All ordinary business is being pursued as if nothing had taken place. There is, however, considerable feeling against the desultory, who are to be expelled. There is no further need of cabling. Official report coming by mail. The only official intercourse was to return boarding calls."

Manuel Is Guarded.

London, Oct. 12.—A news dispatch from Gibraltar says that a suspicious appearing Portuguese, who came direct from Lisbon, has been arrested at Gibraltar. Since the arrest special precautions have been taken to guard King Manuel.

HELL Subject of Torrey Sermon— While Mr. McEwan Sings CALVARY

Large congregations and improvement in the chorus work nightly mark the Torrey meeting at the Auditorium building, Tenth street and Broadway, as growing in power. Last night the choir was larger and sang with more spirit, under the direction of William McEwan, and the congregational singing is also acquiring volume as the people catch the inspiration of the leader and become more familiar with their surroundings. Last night Mr. McEwan sang "Calvary," of Paul Rodney, while the audience sat spellbound.

Dr. Torrey announced last night that the first factory meeting will be held at the Lack Sing'g'ree plant, South Third street, at 8 o'clock Thursday.

Dr. Torrey's subject last night was "Hell, What Sort of a Place It Is, and Who are Going There."

Dr. Torrey said: "My subject tonight is Hell: Its Certainty, What Sort of a Place It Is, and How to Escape It. If I were to choose my own subject to preach upon, I certainly would never choose this. I always speak upon it with reluctance and pain. It is an awful subject, but a minister of God has no right to choose his own subjects. He must go to God for them, and I am confident that God wishes me to speak upon this awful subject tonight. I wish that I could believe that there was no hell, that is, I wish that I could believe that all men would come to repentance and accept Christ and that therefore hell should be unnecessary.

"Of course, if men will persist in sin, and persist in the rejection of Christ, God's glorious Son, I cannot but recognize that it is right that there should be a hell, and that that hell should continue as long as men persist in their sin and rejection of Christ. If men will choose sin, it is for the good of the universe and the glory of God that there should be a hell to confine them in, but I wish with all my heart that all men would repent and thus render hell unnecessary, as far as the human race is concerned. But I do not wish to believe it if it is not true. I would rather believe and preach unpleasant truth than to believe and preach pleasant error. And as awful as the thought is, I have been driven to the conclusion that there is a hell.

I once honestly believed and taught that all men, and even the devil, would ultimately come to repentance, and that thus hell would cease to be. But I came to the place where I could not honestly reconcile this position with the teaching of Christ and the apostles. I was driven to the alternative—that I must either give up my Bible or give up my eternal hope. I could not give up the Bible. I had become thoroughly convinced that the Bible, beyond a doubt, was the very Word of God.

I could not in honesty twist and distort the Scriptures to make them agree with what I wanted to believe. As an honest man there was only one thing left for me to do—that was to give up my opinion that all men would ultimately come to repentance and be saved. I know perfectly well that if a man stands squarely upon the teaching of Christ and the apostles and declares it without fear, he will be called "narrow," "harsh" and "cruel."

But as to being narrow, I have no desire to be any more broad than Jesus Christ was; as to being cruel, it is cruel to tell men the truth? Is it not the kindest thing that one can do to declare the whole counsel of God and to point out to men the full measure of their danger?

Suppose that I were walking down a railway track, knowing that far back of me there was a train coming on loaded with happy excursionists—men, women and children—full of joy and gladness. I come to a place where I had supposed that there was a bridge across the chasm, but to my horror I find that the bridge is down. I say to myself, "I must go back at once as far as possible up the track and stop that oncoming train." I hurry back and put forth my utmost effort to stop the train. I break in upon the people with the awful announcement that the bridge is down, and that they are in peril of a frightful disaster. I spoil the merriment of the evening, and I banish the bright thoughts from their mind and bring in their place horrid thoughts of imminent disaster. Would that be cruel? Would it not be the kindest thing that I could do? Suppose, on the other hand, when I had found the bridge down, I had said, "These people are so happy, I cannot bear to disturb their night's light-heartedness and gaiety; that would be too cruel. I will sit down here and wait till the train comes," and I sit down while the train comes rushing on and leaps unwarned into that awful abyss, and soon there are rising and despatching shrieks and groans of the wounded and mangled as they crawl out from among the corpses of the dead. Would that be kind?

In our country, if I acted that way I would be arrested for manslaughter.

Friends, I have been down the track. I had supposed that there was a bridge across the chasm. I have found that the bridge is down, and you who are now full of gladness and joy are rushing on unaware of the awful fate that awaits you. I have come back up the track to warn you. I may banish for the time being your joyfulness and merriment, but by God's grace I will save you from the awful doom. Is that cruel? Is it not the kindest thing that I can do? I would much rather be called cruel for being kind, than be called kind for being cruel. The cruellest man on earth is the man who believes the stern things we are told in the Word of God about the future penalties of sin, but keeps back from declaring them because they are unpopular.

No Speculation. "I shall not give you tonight my own speculations about the future destiny of the impenitent. My speculations would be worth as much as those of other men, and no more. That is, they would be worth practically nothing at all. Man's speculations on such a subject are absolutely valueless. God knows; we don't. But God has been pleased to tell us much of what He knows about it. Let us listen to Him. One ounce of His revelation about the future is worth a hundred tons of man's speculation. One hour on every side in these days, 'I think so and so about the future life.' What difference does it make what you think? The question is, What does God say?

"You will find my text tonight in Matt. v. 29 Revised Version: 'And if the right eye causeth thee to stumble, pluck it out, and cast it from thee, for it is profitable for thee that one of thy members should perish, and not the whole body be cast into hell.' You will notice I take the Revised Version I take it from the Sermon on the Mount for two reasons—first of all because it exactly suits my purpose; second, because a great many men say in our day that though they do not believe in the whole Bible, they do believe in the Sermon on the Mount. Well, I have taken my text from that part of the Bible that you all say you believe. And you will notice I have taken it from the Revised Version. I have done that for two reasons. First of all, because the Revised Version is in this instance a more accurate translation than the Authorized version; and second, because a great many men say that the Revised Version has done away with hell. Well, there seems to be plenty of it left in the text. But, you say, that text is highly figurative. Very well, let it go at that. It at least means this much, that almost anything is better than going to hell; and that is my chief proposition tonight. Almost anything is better than going to hell.

The Certainty of It. "What I have to say will come under two heads. First, the certainty of hell; second, the character of hell; and third, how to escape hell.

It is absolutely certain that there is a hell. There are people in this city who will tell you that all the scholarly ministers and clergymen have given up belief in the orthodox hell. That simply is not so. That kind of argument is a favorite argument with men who know that they have a weak case, and try to bolster up a weak case by strong assertion. It is true beyond a doubt that some scholarly ministers have given up belief in the orthodox hell, but they never gave it up for reasons of Greek or New Testament scholarship. They gave it up for purely sentimental and speculative reasons. No man can go to the New Testament to find out what it really teaches, and not to see how he can twist it into conformity with the speculations which he wishes to believe, and not find hell in the New Testament.

"But suppose it were true. Suppose that every scholarly minister had given up belief in the orthodox hell. It would not prove anything; for everybody that is familiar with the history of the world and the history of the church knows that time and time again the scholars have all given up belief in doctrines that after all in the final outcome proved to be true.

"There were no scholars in Noah's day except Noah that believed there would be a flood, but the flood came just the same.

"There were no scholars in Lot's day except Lot that believed that God would destroy Sodom and Gomorrah, but He did.

"Jeremiah and one friend were the only leading men in all Jerusalem that believed what Jeremiah taught about the coming destruction of Jerusalem under Nebuchadnezzar, but history, outside the Bible, as well as history inside the Bible, tells us that it came true to the very letter, though there was not a scholar believed it.

Every leading school of theological thought in the days of Jesus Christ, the Pharisees, the Sadducees, the Herodians, and the Essenes, every one of the four schools at Jesus Christ's prediction about the coming judgment of God upon Jerusalem, but secular history tells us that in spite of the dissent of all the scholars it came true just as Jesus Christ predicted.

"There was not a university in the world, there was scarcely a leading scholar, in the days of Martin Luther and Huss that had not given up faith in the doctrine of justification by faith till Huss and Luther and their colleagues came, and they had to establish a new university to stand for the truth of God.

"But today we know that Martin Luther was right, and every university of Germany, France, England and Scotland was wrong. So, if it were true that every scholarly preacher on earth had given up belief in the doctrine of the orthodox hell, it would not prove anything.

"I say that hell is certain. Why? First of all, because Jesus Christ says so, and the apostles say so. God says so. If you want the word of Jesus Christ turn to Matt. xxv. 41, 'Then shall He say also unto them on the left hand, depart from me, ye cursed, into everlasting fire, prepared for the devil and his angels.' If you want the words of Paul the Apostle, turn to 2 Thess. i. 7-9. 'The Lord Jesus shall be revealed from heaven with His mighty angels, in flaming fire, taking vengeance on them that know not God, and that obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ: who shall be punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord, and from the glory of His power.'

If you want the words of the Apostle John, turn to Rev. xx. 15. 'God spared not the angels that sinned, but cast them down to hell, and delivered them into chains of darkness, to be reserved unto judgment.' The Lord knoweth how to deliver the godly out of judgment to be punished.' If you want the words of the Apostle Jude, turn to Jude 14 and 15. 'The Lord shall come with ten thousand of His holy ones, rendering vengeance unto all and convicting all the ungodly of all their ungodly deeds which they have ungodly done and of all their hard sayings which ungodly sinners have spoken against Him.'

If you want the words of Jesus Himself again, Jesus after He had died, after He had gone down into the abode of the dead, after He had come up again, after He had ascended unto the right hand of His Father (He certainly knows what He is talking about now—He has been there), you will find it in Rev. xxi. 8, 'The fearful, and unbelieving, and the abominable, and idolaters and all liars, shall have their part in the lake which burneth with fire and brimstone: which is the second death.'

"I say that hell is certain, because Jesus Christ and the Apostles say so, because God says so through them. The only thing against it, the speculation of the theologians and dreams of poets. The words of Christ have stood the test of 18 centuries, and always proved true in the final outcome every time. No school of theological speculation has ever stood the test and speculative theologians on the other, it doesn't take me long to decide which to believe.

Experience. "In the second place, I say that hell is certain, because experience, observation, and common sense prove that there is a hell. One of the most certain facts of every man's experience is this—that where there is sin there must be suffering. We all know that. The second certain fact of observation is the longer a man continues in sin the deeper he sinks down into sin and the ruin, shame, agony, and despair which are the outcome of all sin.

"Gentlemen, there are hundreds and thousands of men and women in Paducah tonight in a very practical hell, and the hell is getting worse every day. You may not know how to reconcile what these men and women suffer with the doctrine that God is love, but no intelligent man gives up patent facts because he cannot explain the philosophy of them, and this a patent fact.

"Now, if this process keeps going on, sinking ever deeper and deeper

Answer This Question

When shown positive and reliable proof that a certain remedy had cured numerous cases of female ills, wouldn't any sensible woman conclude that the same remedy would also benefit her if suffering with the same trouble?

Here are two letters which prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Fitchville, Ohio.—"My daughter was all run down, suffered from pains in her side, head and limbs, and could walk but a short distance at a time. She came very near having nervous prostration, had begun to cough a good deal, and seemed melancholy by spells. She tried two doctors but got little help. Since taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, Blood Purifier and Liver Pills she has improved so much that she feels and looks like another girl."—Mrs. C. Cole, Fitchville, Ohio.

Irishburg, Vermont.—"I feel it my duty to say a few words in praise of your medicine. When I began taking it I had been very sick with kidney and bladder troubles and nervous prostration. I am now taking the sixth bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and find myself greatly improved. My friends who call to see me have noticed a great change."—Mrs. A. H. Sanborn, Irishburg, Vermont.

We will pay a handsome reward to any person who will prove to us that these letters are not genuine and truthful—or that either of these women were paid in any way for their testimonials, or that the letters are published without their permission, or that the original letter from each did not come to us entirely unsolicited.

What more proof can any one ask?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

LIVESTOCK.

Louisville, Oct. 12.—The receipts of cattle were only 42 head, for the two days this week 2,780. The buying crowd was small and local, the demand limited, and but little doing in any avenue, the market generally was quiet from start to finish. Some call for prime to fancy butcher stock, while the medium and inferior kinds were drab. Fair inquiry for the best feeders and stockers, plain and common grades somewhat neglected. Hulls steady, canners dull, which cows slow, no prime heavy cattle here, feeding easy.

Calves.
Receipts 139, for the two days 328. The market ruled steady to firm, bulk of the best $9.80, some fancy higher, medium 6.50 to 7.00, common 2.50 to 3.00. Corn and rough heavy calves were 2.00.

Hogs.
Receipts 247, for the two days 4,278. The market ruled steady at yesterday's decline, with the best heavy weights, 220 pounds and up, selling at $8.65, medium and lights 120 to 220 pounds $8.80, pigs ranged from $7.50 for light pigs to $8.50 for heavy pigs, roughs $7.85 down. The pens were well cleared, and the market closed steady.

Sheep and Lambs.
The receipts of sheep and lambs were 257, for the two days 741. The market was quiet; best fat sheep 3c, and best lambs 5 1/2 to 5 3/4 c; some fancy higher; medium lambs 4 1/2 to 5 1/4 c; culls 3 to 4 c. Fat sheep slow sale, at 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 c.

MR. JACOBY TALKS TO HIS CLASSES

CONTINUES SUBJECT OF YESTERDAY'S DISCOURSE.

Excuses Given for Not Becoming Christians and How to Deal With Them.

LECTURES AT 11:15 O'CLOCK

"I cannot be a Christian in my present business; there are many things in the Bible that I do not understand; I am waiting for God's call; I am not ready to accept Christ."

The foregoing excuses of non-church members were shown to be without a solid foundation this morning by the Rev. William S. Jacoby in his lecture to his class of personal workers at the Auditorium. The subject was a continuation of his theme, "Excuses and How to Deal with Those Who Have Them."

Mr. Jacoby said some people say they cannot be Christians on account of their business. It is true, he said, that some people are forced to work on Sunday as the period demands their services. He cited hotel employees, railroad employees, etc., and said they may be Christians and remain in their Sunday work unless their consciences overcome them.

Another excuse, he said, given by non-Christians is that they refuse to accept the Bible as a whole, because there are some passages they do not fully understand. He said some things are beyond the minds of the average man and should not be disputed.

Often times, he said, people refuse to become Christians, saying that they are waiting for the time when God will call them. Mr. Jacoby said it is conscience and duty to accept Christ and not feeling, which is not to be trusted. He said in conclusion, that those who say they are not ready to accept Christ are wrong as God says: "Therefore, be ye also ready for in an hour when you think not He cometh."

Cooked in the Caloric
Come to the Demonstration

THE "Caloric" does better cooking and baking than is possible by any other method. That may sound like a strong statement to you who do not know the possibilities of this wonderful time and labor saving stove, but it is founded upon absolute results. Foods cooked in the "Caloric" are far more nutritious and palatable. The delicate, delicious flavors of meats are far more savory when cooked the "Caloric" way, because none of the wholesomeness is lost by evaporation.

The "Caloric" roasts and bakes food in its raw state without first partially cooking it in an ordinary stove or reheating it before serving.

If you have never tasted food cooked in the "Caloric" Cookstove you cannot realize the vast difference in flavor.

Come to our store today and let us demonstrate to you how you can reduce your meat and grocery bills with a "Caloric" Fireless Cookstove. Come and bring your friends.

A Plain Duty.

When Chief Justice Chase chose to unbend himself he could be witty as well as wise. At a social gathering in his house when he was Secretary of War, the subject of taxation having been mooted, a distinguished naval officer present said he had paid all of his taxes except the income tax. "I have little property," said he, "which brings me in a yearly rental, but the tax gatherers have not spotted it. I do not know whether I ought to let the thing go on that way or not. What would you do if you were in my place, Mr. Chase?" There was a merry twinkle in the eyes of Mr. Chase as he answered: "I think it is the duty of every man to live unspotted as long as he can."—San Francisco Argonaut.

Daily Thought.

It is a high solemn, almost awful thought for every individual man that his earthly influence, which has had a commencement, will never, through all the ages, were the very meanness of us, have an end—Carlyle.

USES OF AN EX-PRESIDENT.

From draining water in Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas to draining a mint julep in St. Louis is not such a far cry for one of Theodore Roosevelt's versatility; and each had its application in the local issues of their respective communities.

In Arkansas Mr. Roosevelt was made to say that the federal government should assist in draining the vast swamps, because they lie in a group of states and not one. Even though those states are among the staunch supporters of state rights, they would gladly, no doubt, see the federal government spend its money in draining their swamps, from which the states would derive direct revenue in taxes and the federal government not a cent. Still further, not one of those states, perhaps, has retained a foot of school land, and a corporation has acquired the Louisiana, and probably the Mississippi and Arkansas swamps, at something like a cent an acre. If the swamps were drained, the corporations, which own them, would have land worth more like $500 an acre. There are reclamation projects in which the federal government may well take a hand. In the west and southwest, where government land in the deserts is being reclaimed, the government sells the land at a sufficient price to defray the expense of irrigation, and loses nothing.

From Arkansas, where he talked water, Mr. Roosevelt went to Missouri, which is in the midst of a prohibition fight. St. Louis, whose vote will be thrown heavily on the side against prohibition, handed him the cup that cheers and he did with that what he thinks the federal government should do with Arkansas swamps. In both instances, Mr. Roosevelt did a perfectly innocent thing, without ulterior motive; yet, in each instance his influence was unwittingly, on his part, but with great disingenuousness on the part of his hosts, so placed in the balance as to seem to direct public opinion in the contest.

President Taft once sagely remarked that the chief use of a president is to increase the gate receipts; we direct the attention of Dr. Lyman Abbott to a new use for our ex-presidents.

FOUR HUNDRED AND EIGHTEEN YEARS AGO.

Four hundred and eighteen years ago: to be explicit, at 2 o'clock in the morning of October 12, 1492, on a Friday, a sailor on board the Spanish caravel, "Nina", sighted what is now known as the island of Haiti, and the courage of Christopher Columbus had verified his conviction that the world was round.

Today in eighteen of the United States the people are keeping holiday in honor of him, who in an age of superstition dared to plunge into the unknown sea that extended westward seemingly to the jumping off place; who, in an age of poverty, persisted through years of rebuff and disappointment until he had inspired others with his belief and secured his ships and men and means to put his theory to the test; who, in an age of extravagant fancy and wild speculation, did something practical. Perhaps, those hardy Norsemen, whose rude gods set an example in daring physical hardships, had found the rugged coast of North America, but their exploits had not affected the civilization of the world, which at that day laid to the southward, where lecky is now most manifest.

Times were ripe for a Christopher Columbus, and mark you, Christopher Columbus was prepared for his task. So mere numbskull he, Christopher Columbus had been educated by a thrifty wood comb of a father; had studied mathematics and the natural sciences; had read much of navigation and, gathered a vast quantity of facts, which didn't fit in well with the theories of his time. Other men had advanced the theory that the world was round, and they were regarded as just a trifle heretical in their beliefs.

Columbus adopted the profession of sailor, and floated into a port of Portugal on a board one day after a shipwreck. He stayed there where circumstances placed him and married the daughter of a provincial governor of the realm. At Porto Santo, off Madeira, he read the log and studied the maps of his father-in-law, who had been a naval captain. He learned of strange driftwood that came from the westward, and ships venturing out to sea reported birds and vegetation, that indicated land, if their presence were to be given a rational interpretation.

But superstition was strong then as it is today, and people reasoned from principles to facts. Instead of from facts to principles, Columbus was a learned man and a daring sailor, and he believed the earth was small and India lay directly to the westward. Thither he would sail, and make whomever helped him, rich and satisfy his own opinion. He first applied to Portugal, and the king sent out secretly, an expedition, which became disheartened and returned. Then began Columbus' long siege of the court of Spain, twice leaving the country and twice being recalled. At last he secured his three small ships and 120 men and set sail westward into the unknown.

It is impossible to realize the quality of moral courage necessary to do what Columbus did. Men today defy death in seeking the earth's poles, flying through the air or diving beneath the deep. They feel that they can but die. But Columbus had more to face. Death was not all; for the accumulated superstitions of all the Pagan ages that had preceded his, had peopled the deep with monsters, whose frightful men and conduct outweighed the thought of death. His men were steeped in superstition, and even though a brave leader inspires his men, the converse is equally true, that the superstitious dread of the men is apt to be communicated to the leader. Is it possible to believe that Columbus never had a thought of turning back? Suffice it to say, that, after sailing from August 3 to October 12, they sighted land; that the faith of Columbus—the compelling faith of Columbus—was justified; that a new world was discovered; and that, however much we owe to other men for the blessings we enjoy, we must remember that Christopher Columbus sailed through a sea of superstition into a new world of reality, and gave to the earth a heritage of liberty, that today is at last disturbing after nearly 500 years the very court by whose bounty Columbus was enabled to fit out his expedition.

Heard in the Lobby

Last Sunday in one of the leading churches of the city the announcement was made to the Sunday school pupils of the exhibition of "The Last Supper," the masterpiece of William H. Leavitt, the celebrated American artist. The superintendent of the school explained carefully to the pupils that it would be worth the seeing, and explained that children could see the original painting for 10 cents. After the dismissal of the school he was thunderstruck when a small boy approached and said: "What's that you are tryin' to hand us? You know that that's a punk supper for only 10 cents."

ELY ABANDONS AERO FLIGHT

DECLARES PAINT OF MACHINE IMPROPERLY PLACED.

Leaves for Cleveland; His Machine Will Be Shipped Home—Endurance Record.

ROOSEVELT MAKES FLIGHT

Chicago, Oct. 12.—Eugene Ely, the aviator, late gave up his attempt to make the Chicago-New York flight for the $25,000 prize of the Chicago Evening Post and New York Times. Ely left his aeroplane in a field near South Chicago, 22 miles from the starting point at Hawthorne Park, and departed for Cleveland. His machine will be shipped to New York tomorrow. Ely declared his continued trouble with the aeroplane was due to the failure of the machinists to properly arrange the gasoline tank.

After Ely announced that he had abandoned the flight it was stated that the Post and Times would pay a prize to the first aviator to make the Chicago-New York flight in a stipulated time of seven days.

New Endurance Record.

St. Louis, Oct. 12.—A. L. Welch, a Wright biplane, today created a new American endurance record of three hours, eleven minutes and fifty-five seconds.

Roosevelt Makes Flight.

St. Louis, Oct. 12.—Col. Roosevelt made an aeroplane flight. He said it was the finest experience he ever had. He traveled two times around the field at Kinloch park in 3 minutes and 20 seconds. He waved his hand at the crowd below, most of whom were too dumbfounded to move. When the machine alighted a mighty shout of approval and relief went up.

Arch Hoxsey, the Wright aviator, with whom Roosevelt made the flight, said his passenger made a good fellow voyager except that, instead of being afraid he was having such a good time that Hoxsey was afraid he would fall out or interfere with the engine at his side. The colonel waved his hands at the crowd so vigorously that Hoxsey called out to him:

"Keep your hands on the rail, colonel."

Roosevelt then obeyed orders. The colonel's flight was a complete surprise, for, although he had been invited to go, no one had any idea he would.

Roosevelt reached the aviation field at the head of a long procession of motor cars. Roosevelt walked up to Hoxsey's machine and shook hands with the aviator.

"I'd like to have you for a passenger," said Hoxsey.

The colonel began to take off his coat.

Governor Hadley stepped up quickly, with a scared look and said:

"Are you really going up, colonel?"

"Of course I am," said the colonel. Without another word he took his seat beside the engine. Hadley saw it would do no good to protest. He admitted afterwards that he was nervous.

"This is my district, and it extends up into the air, I suppose. I feel a sense of responsibility while the colonel is in my territory," he said.

Roosevelt removed his slouch hat and borrowed a grip cap. After two trials the motor started. The national guardsmen and photographers had barely time to get out of the way.

The machine bounded forward and then rose easily. The members of the party which accompanied Roosevelt from St. Louis, mistaking him, began a mad hunt for Roosevelt. They were astounded when a militiaman said:

"He's up there," pointing to the airship.

The aeroplane sped quickly around the field at a height of less than 100 feet. Hoxsey, had made the first lap of a mile and a half before the crowd was convinced that it was really Roosevelt who was Hoxsey's passenger. When the colonel swept past the grand stand he waved his hands. The spectators were too frightened to call back. The machine sped on and about something to the colonel. The engine cracked and spluttered, hurling the aeroplane forward at a speed of nearly a mile a minute.

At the end of the second lap Hoxsey changed his plans and the aeroplane descended. Roosevelt, smiling a most expansive smile, climbed out backward. When the people were convinced that he landed safely they cheered the colonel wildly.

Roosevelt shook Hoxsey's hand vigorously. He said:

"It was great; first class! I wish I could stay up for an hour but I have not the time this afternoon."

"Did it feel scary?" he was asked.

"Not a bit."

"What were your sensations?"

"Oh! it was perfectly fine. I enjoyed every minute of it."

Governor Hadley, with a long sigh of relief, piloted the colonel to his automobile and started back for St. Louis.

Walter Brookings and A. L. Welch, later, on an endurance run, followed Roosevelt in their aeroplanes, while Alfred Lefflane, in a Gleriot monoplane, led the automobile procession. The aerial escort continued for two miles.

Brookings cut sharp turns at dizzy heights. Lefflane darted back and forth across the colonel's path. On the trip to St. Louis Roosevelt stopped to make a speech at Clayton. He told the crowd:

"I went up in an airship with an American aviator handling it. He then drove into St. Louis, and went to the fair grounds where several thousand children awaited him. He also told them of his flight."

Dear Sir:—Replying to yours of the 14th inst., will say that I have a 4 H.P. Pierce Engine in my motor boat, and having had experience with several other makes, can say that this engine is the best one I have ever known, and all of my friends, some of them expert gas engineers, pronounce it the best working gas engine they have ever seen. With a properly regulated carburetor and a good spark this engine will positively run indefinitely, and since it has been in my boat I have run it as long as fourteen hours continuously without a stop or hiccup. While the engine is rated at 4 H.P., it turns up a three-fifth 10 inch wheel of 18 inch pitch at 550 revolutions, and I consider it as powerful as any 4 H.P. engine I have ever known. If I were going to buy a new marine engine today I would not investigate the merits of any other, but would immediately order a Pierce.

IN SOCIAL CIRCLES

Richardson-Weir Wedding a Pretty Event.

A marriage in which much affectionate interest centered and that was beautiful and impressive in its simple solemnization was that of Miss Corn Brockman Richardson and Mr. Herbert Hesk Weir this morning at 10:30 o'clock at the First Baptist church. The Rev. M. E. Dodd, the pastor, performed the ceremony, and the church was filled with the girlhood and family friends of the lovely bride.

The altar was banked with palms and ferns arranged in a pyramid effect and forming an attractive background for the bridal party. Golden rod was the appropriate flower and a profusion of it was effectively used in the choir decorations. Palms and ferns were grouped in the windows.

The only attendants were the ushers, four special friends of the bride, who preceded the couple to the altar, advancing singly down the two aisles in the following order: Mr. W. W. Rogers and Mr. Burward Sutton; Mr. James Paxton and Mr. Robert Guthrie. Miss Richardson entered with Mr. Weir.

Miss Corbin Puryear presided at the organ with artistic skill. The Mendelssohn march was the wedding procession and "Call Me Mine Own" was softly played during the ceremony. The Lohengrin Bridal Chorus was the recessional. The ring ceremony was impressively used by Dr. Dodd.

The winsome bride was lovely in a tailored suit of Copenhagen blue diagonal with a self-toned silk blouse of blue and Persian stripes. She wore a turban to match of velvet finished with shaded silk and Persian effects. She carried an armful of bride roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Weir left at 11:20 o'clock for Louisville and will travel leisurely to California, making stops in Chicago, Denver, Salt Lake and San Francisco, following the picturesque Rio Grande and Denver scenic route. They will spend several days in Chicago with the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Robbins.

Mrs. Weir is one of Paducah's loveliest daughters and her coterie of friends is an especially large one. Many charming pre-nuptial courtships and showers evinced her popularity and the reluctance of her friends in the old Kentucky home to let her go. Mr. Weir is an attractive young Canadian and during his week's stay in Paducah easily made his fiancée's friends his, too. He is a teller in the San Bernardino National bank and is prominent socially.

The couple will begin house-keeping at once in San Bernardino, and will occupy a pretty bungalow of their own as soon as it is completed.

The bridal presents were numerous and lovely, testifying to the warm love felt for the young bride in her girlhood home. Many gifts are awaiting them in California from their mutual friends, the bride having spent a part of the winter and spring of 1909 with her sister, Mrs. Oscar H. Jones, in San Bernardino.

WILL WIN IN FAIR TRIAL

Many Years' Experience Causes Mrs. Bells to Think She Can Predict Outcome.

New Hartford, Iowa.—"I think I am well qualified," writes Mrs. L. Bells, of this place, "to recommend Cardui, and strongly advise all women to give it a trial. For the past 24 years, I had been afflicted with troubles peculiar to women. They made life a burden to me. I tried home doctors, and various remedies without relief. At last I began to take Cardui, according to directions, and now I am entirely cured of all my afflictions."

Do you suffer from any of those troubles to which all women are liable? If so, how would you like to be able to say, "Now I am entirely cured of all my afflictions." Like Mrs. Bells does?

Take Cardui, the woman's tonic. For more than half a century, this purely vegetable, gentle-acting woman's remedy has been in successful use in the treatment of just such troubles. Not only has it helped sick women to health, but as a strengthening tonic for weak, debilitated women, it has been found of more than ordinary value.

Baraca Class Has Great Growth

Marshall A. Hudson, a very busy business man of Syracuse, N. Y., being desirous of rescuing young men from the paths of sin and death, and of bringing them into the Kingdom of Christ, organized in the First Baptist church of the first Baraca Bible class, October 10, 1890.

Mr. Hudson firmly believed that by sympathizing with young men, impressing them with the manliness of Christian life, providing for them elevating and refining amusements, and allowing them to know of the love of the church for them, he could thereby interest them in the Sunday school and the study of the Bible, and thus bring them to the Master.

The history of the first Baraca class would make an interesting volume. It has been a great success, and over 350 were converted. Young men of the world found the Baraca boys kind and sympathetic and filled with a joy and a peace that they longed to possess. When cordially invited by "one of the fellows" to visit the class, many of them responded, and, having been given such a warm welcome, they caught the Baraca spirit and united with the class, and members have gone out of the class to become missionaries and ministers and Christian workers.

Mr. Hudson's idea—put in operation—has solved the problem of how to reach and hold the young men in the church.

"Young men at work for young men, all standing by the Bible school," was the platform adopted, and with this ever in mind, Mr. Hudson has, by constant study and trial of methods, brought forth the Baraca Bible class, which is a power against evil.

The idea spreads over a continent. Syracuse could not hold the "new idea." Other men saw in Mr. Hudson's idea many virtues. The "secret service," which has been very useful in deepening the spiritual life among young men; the prayer meetings for young men; the Bible training class; the social and literature features—all of these excellent advantages were recognized by the pastors and workers and from all points of the compass came letters of inquiry.

Mr. Hudson willingly placed before the inquirers the characteristics of his class, never dreaming that Baraca—the child of his mind—would be accepted by prominent workers all over the nation. Nineteen years have passed since the organization of the first Baraca class, and now from the Atlantic to the Pacific and in foreign countries the Baraca plan is worn, and many thousands of young men are marching under the class colors—blue and white, which mean "honor and purity."

In June, 1898, representatives from the various classes met in convention at Utica, N. Y., and organized the World-Wide Baraca Union. This union now has 600,000 members, and will soon reach a million men in the Bible study.

Seeking Safety.

A city gentleman was recently invited down to the country for "a day with the birds."

Whatever his powers in matters of finance, his shooting was not remarkable for its accuracy, to the great disgust of the man in attendance, whose tip was generally regulated by the size of the bag.

"Dear me!" at last exclaimed the sportsman, "but the birds seem exceptionally strong on the wing this year."

"Not all of 'em, sir," came the remark; "you've shot at the same bird this last dozen times. 'E's a feller!" you about, sir."

"Following me about! Nonsense! Why should a bird do that?"

"I dunno, sir, I'm sure," replied the man, "unless he's 'agin' round for safety!"—Ideas.

To get things coming your way it is first necessary to go after them.

PROVES FACTOR IN THE MARKET

WHEAT CROP OF ARGENTINA AFFECTS TRADE.

Reports of Drought Damage Causes a Gain—Short Interests Are Eliminated.

CORN, TOO, SUFFERS GREATLY.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—Prospects for the growing wheat crop of Argentina entered the local wheat trade as an important price-making factor last week. The crop scare season is now on in the South American country. Early in the week scores of cable reports reaching the Chicago trade told of drought and damage to wheat, and prices here scored a gain of over 2 cents in two days. Later, however, Argentine news came contradictory and unsatisfactory, and short sellers began to cover. The short interest was soon eliminated and prices then slumped off quickly, the advance established only being almost entirely lost.

The Argentine cables gave notice that the season for crop scares in that country is again at hand. Harvesting there begins in the earliest districts near the end of November. The cables told of drought damage and evidently referred to the effects of the long period of dry weather that was broken by beneficial rains not long since. In view of the fact that recent cables from Argentina have frequently noted these beneficial rains, the trade was inclined to discredit the earlier cables. The later ones added fears of locust damage in the north. The cable that first stirred the trade was from Buenos Ayres, and stated that while wheat acreage was 15 per cent. more than last year the damage on account of drought would be at least 25 per cent.

Small Shorts Stamped.

The market was in prime condition for an advance when the Argentine news reached the trade. Previous short selling having been quite general and bearish sentiment rampant. Noting this condition a few of the professional speculators worked on the buying side from the first. Some of the shorts who had put out big lines on the day previous to the receipt of the Argentine crop news covered, thus stampeding a large number of smaller shorts.

There was nothing in the supply or demand situation in the domestic field that was any different than heretofore. Statistics from abroad, however, showed that the conditions were working around to a little better basis.

After a poor start on Monday, Argentine news held the center of the stage in the wheat arena Tuesday and Wednesday. Although there were numerous denials of the extreme reports of damage claimed, the market advanced sharply. All the indications were that the market was badly oversold, and that professional speculators, under the lead of A. J. Lichstein, were taking advantage of the situation and were running the shorts to cover.

European Markets Higher.

European markets were a little higher, but gave no indication of much anxiety over the Argentine crop prospect. In addition to the covering by shorts and the bull campaign by professional speculators there was much miscellaneous buying, based on the theory that the season for crop scares in Argentina is at hand, and that the short seller is likely to have a hard time for a more or less extended period. Part of the buying came from Europe, but the latter was for May delivery. Exporters continue to assert that there is no demand for wheat for shipment, but Winnipeg messages claimed that exporters had bids near the market for quite a large quantity of grain. Winnipeg prices were strong, but did not any more than keep pace with the Chicago market. Cash grain dealers all over Canada were also offering wheat very freely to local seaboard and southwestern exporters.

On Thursday wheat fluctuations were extremely irregular and uncertain. Argentine news was contradictory and unsatisfactory as were the fluctuations in prices. Early Argentine news induced a great deal of selling here, the weather being cool there, but no damage recorded. There were, however, fears of frost in some sections and it was claimed that locusts were working in the northern districts. Later cables claimed that the weather was dry and hot. The contradictory reports kept the trade guessing and worked havoc among the professional speculators.

Shorts Cover Freely.

Early short sellers covered very freely under the highest prices of the day, only to find that offerings were practically unlimited at the advance and that prices quickly slumped lower than before as soon as the short interest had been eliminated. Elements of strength which encouraged a little new buying were the continued advances in European markets and the continued light receipts at primary centers in this country. The effect of the latter influence, however, was largely voided because of the heavy accumulations due to very light shipments. Although Minneapolis and Duluth receipts were less than half as large as those of a year ago, there was an increase in stocks there for the week of 1,500,000 bushels.

Miscellaneous speculators who over sold on the first decline were the best buyers at the highest prices of the session. There was more or less scattered commission houses buying throughout the morning, a part being new investment demand based on the Argentine crop scare.

Nervousness and uncertainty were the all-important features of Friday's market. There was but a small volume of business. Pitt traders in general were acting with extreme caution following their experience of the day previous. There was an underlying tone of strength in the market and some increase in confidence on the part of the local bull element. There was a general hardening of cash wheat prices here and elsewhere but it was not very pronounced. Nevertheless it helped the popular sentiment in favor of higher values.

Corn Suffers Greatly.

Corn suffered from a great deal of selling pressure last week. The market was weak despite the fact that heavy frosts extended well into Iowa and Kansas with heavy rains from Missouri and eastern Iowa through the belt. Shorts covered in sympathy with the bulge in wheat and because of light country offerings and liberal shipping sales. The selling pressure at the advance, however, as in wheat, proved beyond the capacity of the trade, the short interest had been eliminated by the bulge and the market was without support. Country offerings of corn are becoming light.

Recent declines in prices along with wet weather greatly decreased farmers' sales at country stations and made the country dealer a little less pessimistic about the quantity of grain he was likely to receive. The probability that the clear, cold weather that extended over the corn belt at the end of the week would continue for some time and greatly improve the condition of the new crop by drying it into commercial condition and at the same time as a decided help to the shippers of old corn, netted decidedly in favor of sellers.

The oat market drifted lower last week despite the attempts on the part of short sellers to take profits and work for a rally. The supply is plentiful, the outlet just at present is poor.

A trained orator recently disconcerted his exhibitor at a music hall by continually endeavoring to break away from all restraint and to climb over the footlights into the orchestra.

The widely advertised act came to a sudden end, and the professor emerged from behind the curtain and apologized for the actions of his pet in about these words:

"Ladies and gentlemen, I'm ham very sorry to disappoint you this evening. We are compelled to cease our engagement until the manager engages a new orchestra leader."

The one at present hemphoyed 'ere 'as no 'air on top of 'is 'ead, and my 'bird takes hit for a 'egg.'—Tit-Bits.

CORN IS KING OF ALL CROPS

YIELD IS 250,000,000 BUSHELS ABOVE LAST YEAR.

Big Money for Farmers—Almost Equal in Value to Wheat and Cotton Combined.

IS NOW WORTH $1,400,000,000.

Cincinnati, Oct. 12.—The Enquirer says: The corn crop of the United States for 1910 will exceed 2,750,000,000 bushels; will be not far from 250,000,000 bushels larger than that of 1909, and will yield the farmer $1,400,000,000.

From reports to the Enquirer from every state in the Union there does not seem to be any probability of the crop reaching the three billion bushel winter when de farmers ain't doing talked about.

The first estimate of the crop, made from the July condition report issued by the government's department of agriculture, was for a yield of $2,897,768,000 bushels from a planted area of 114,083,000 acres, as reported by the Washington bureau.

At that time the crop had almost recovered from the retarding influence of the early spring, and was at its most promising state.

The Three Billion Promise.

Then there came from Washington the semi-official announcement that the corn crop might exceed 3,000,000,000 bushels, this, of course, conditioned on a continuance through out the season of the exceedingly favorable conditions then prevailing.

Presuming that there had been planted the area claimed by the government crop reporting board, and that all of it were to be harvested; and presuming also that the government's estimate for the 1909 crop of 2,772,376,000 was correct, there was ample warrant for the optimistic claim of 3,000,000,000 bushels for 1910.

But the crop encountered a protracted drought in some parts of the country during July and August, so that the condition percentage dropped from 86 on July 1 to 78 September 1, almost one and a half points below the ten year average.

Federal Figures Too High.

There was a recovery of condition during September, but the deterioration of the summer could not be recovered and put a 3,000,000,000-bushel crop out of the question.

Then the government's crop area of 114,083,000 acres seems to be too large. Officials of the state crop reporting boards say so. In Ohio alone there is a discrepancy of 900,000 acres, the government's figures being that much in excess of the state board of agriculture. As the state board's figures are compiled from assessors' returns, the official claim they are more nearly correct than those of the government.

For Indiana the government's corn area is 1,000,000 acres more than claimed by the state board, which, as in Ohio, also secures its acreage from assessors' returns.

Some Big Discrepancies.

Similar explanations are made by the state board of Kansas, where the discrepancy is 400,000 acres, and of Nebraska, where the government's figures are 1,200,000 in excess of the state's. For other states the excess of acreage reported by the government's board, as compared with the acreage reported to the Enquirer, is for Illinois, 3,500,000; for Missouri,

Friday, Oct. 21—"Polly of the Circus."

Saturday, Oct. 22, (Matinee and Night)—"The Girl From Rector's."

Next week's offerings at the Kentucky should please everybody; for they run from the heavy, serious, almost tragic story of "The Other Woman" as told by Blanche Walsh and her company, through the sweet idyl of "Metz in Ireland" set off by the love ballads of Al Wilson, and the son times melodramatic but always convincing contrasts in "Polly of the Circus" to rollicking chorus numbers of "The Girl From Rector's." If a theater-goer can't find something next week to please him, he will be hard to please.

Taking them categorically, Al Wilson, who comes Tuesday night in

A LARGE EXCLUSIVE SELECTION OF FALL AND WINTER WOOLENS NOW READY FOR YOUR INSPECTION. WE CAN INTEREST YOU IN PICTURES AND QUALITY. FIT AND SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

HARMELING, TAILOR

322 Broadway.
Established 1888.

"Metz in Ireland" is repeating in St. Louis the hit he made in Louisville. His play, his company, his songs and his scenery all come in for complimentary notices. Mr. Wilson has a following here as elsewhere. The tender pathos of his Switzer ditty, the soft, sincere, notes of his mellow, golden voice, and the curious mixture of quizzical humor and sentiment in his acting, give him a distinct place in the hearts of the American people.

Wednesday night's attraction, Blanche Walsh in "The Other Woman," is one of the notable attractions of the season. Miss Walsh is an actress of power in character delineation, and her present play is said to be one that affords her range for the display of her abilities, as always she is surrounded by a company of fine artists.

"Polly of the Circus" has been seen here twice, and, like "Metz," "Polly" has a host of friends, who would not miss seeing her when she comes. The piece still continues under the management of Frederick Thompson, the original producer, and a striking figure in the dramatic world today, so that it does not deteriorate by falling into the hands of the puppeteer of recent days. The piece is a comedy, to be compared to no other excepting "The Little Men of the Circus," in which the circus people and the villagers, the heartless gossips and the conquest of love, it is all beautifully told, and the scenic effects are marvelous showing the circus tent, the "pad" room, and at last the old-fashioned circus wagon train winding its way out of the town at night, as seen from the window of the minister's home. Miss St. Leon who plays the part of "Polly," until three years ago was a circus rider.

"The Girl From Rector's" is all its name implies, a rollicking musical comedy, with little enough of plot, but plenty of music, singing, dancing and comedy. There are fewer than usual musical comedies on the road this year, and this is said to be one of the best. The engagement is for matinee and night.

"The Fighting Parson," pure melodrama, produced by an excellent company is the hit at the Kentucky Saturday night and matinee of this week. Those who love thrilling situations, in which the hero conquers and villainy is thwarted in the end, will enjoy "The Fighting Parson."

DAY OF ATONEMENT

BEGINS THIS EVENING WITH SERVICE AT 7:30.

The Jewish Festival as Ordained in Leviticus xvi, 29-34 and xxiii, 26-32, Observed Here.

The Jewish festival, the Day of Atonement Yom Kippur, the holiest day in the Jewish calendar, falls this year on the 13th day of October. The Hebrew date is the 10th of Tishri. The festival is ordained in Leviticus xvi, 29-34 and xxiii, 26-32. In both passages it is styled "A Sabbath of Solemn Rest."

The purpose of the Day of Atonement is clearly indicated by its name. It is intended to complete and crown the work of the penitential season, begun on the first of Tishri (New Year), by finally reconciling the soul with the Almighty. Implicitly trusting in the divine forgiveness, the Israelite believes that his contrition, if it be really sincere, will atone for him, will make him "at one" once more with his Heavenly Father. The day, then, is devoted to a supreme effort of penitence, to a mighty endeavor after communion with the Almighty. It is spent in prayer and meditation.

It is kept, too, as a fast, in obedience to the command given in each of the two passages above cited where the expression "afflict his soul" must be understood, as it is throughout the Bible, as synonymous with fasting.

The chief, the real aim of the Day of Atonement is the reformed life. All the external elements of the day's observance—its worship and austerities—are intended to promote this supreme purpose. They cannot do duty for it. The act of fasting is partly to serve as a self-imposed chastisement, and partly to have a reflex influence. For hunger and weakness tell upon the consciousness; they mortify pride, break down obstinacy, cast men down before God in humility and contrition. That fasting does even more than that. Taking the worshiper away from such carnal occupations as eating and drinking, it helps to fix his thoughts upon the needs of the soul. It makes the day one of physical abstinence and self-denial, but also of correspondingly increased spirituality.

Services at Temple Israel this evening at 7:30. Sermon by Dr. Meyer Lovitch. Subject, "The Need of Religion."

Thursday 9:30 a. m., "Our Three-fold Accountability;" 3:30 p. m., memorial service, "The Voice of the Silent."

The Catacombs.

The catacombs at Rome were the burial places of the early Christians. They are about 530 miles in extent and are said to have contained six million bodies. During the persecutions of the Christians by Nero and other Roman emperors the catacombs were used for hiding places. Under the floor of the catacombs were crowded with those for whom there was no safety in the face of day. The art of the catacombs is unique and most interesting. Simple designs are etched in the slabs which seal the tombs. Now and then are small chapels where paintings are to be found. All are Bible illustrations, so that the catacombs may be said to be a pictorial Bible in effect.
